RIN 1018-AX20

2010-2011 Refuge-Specific Hunting and Sport Fishing Regulations

AGENCY: Fish and Wildlife Service, Interior.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Fish and Wildlife Service adds one refuge to the list of areas open for hunting and/or sport fishing and increases the activities available at seven other refuges, along with pertinent refuge-specific regulations on other refuges that pertain to migratory game bird hunting, upland game hunting, big game hunting, and sport fishing for the 2010-2011 season.

DATES: This rule is effective January 21, 2011.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Leslie A. Marler, (703) 358-2397.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The National Wildlife Refuge System Administration Act of 1966 closes national wildlife refuges in all States except Alaska to all uses until opened. The Secretary of the Interior (Secretary) may open refuge areas to any use, including hunting and/or sport fishing, upon a determination that such uses are compatible with the purposes of the refuge and National Wildlife Refuge System (Refuge System or our/we) mission. The action also must be in accordance with provisions of all laws applicable to the areas, developed in coordination with the appropriate State fish and wildlife agency(ies), consistent with the principles of sound fish and wildlife management and administration, and otherwise in the public interest. These requirements ensure that we maintain the biological integrity, diversity, and environmental health of the Refuge System for the benefit of present and future generations of Americans.

We annually review refuge hunting and sport fishing programs to determine whether to include additional refuges or whether individual refuge regulations governing existing programs need modifications. Changing environmental conditions, State and Federal regulations, and other factors affecting fish and wildlife populations and habitat may warrant modifications to refuge-specific regulations to ensure the continued compatibility of hunting and sport fishing programs and to ensure that these programs will not materially interfere with or detract from the fulfillment of refuge purposes or the Refuge System's mission.

Provisions governing hunting and sport fishing on refuges are in title 50 of the Code of Federal Regulations in part 32 (50 CFR part 32). We regulate hunting and sport fishing on refuges to:

- Ensure compatibility with refuge purpose(s);
- Properly manage the fish and wildlife resource(s);
- Protect other refuge values;
- Ensure refuge visitor safety; and
- Provide opportunities for quality fish- and wildlife-dependent recreation.

On many refuges where we decide to allow hunting and sport fishing, our general policy of adopting regulations identical to State hunting and sport fishing regulations is adequate in meeting these objectives. On other refuges, we must supplement State regulations with more-restrictive Federal regulations to ensure that we meet our management responsibilities, as outlined in the "Statutory Authority" section below. We issue refuge-specific hunting and sport fishing regulations when we open wildlife refuges to migratory game bird hunting, upland game hunting, big game hunting, or sport fishing. These regulations list the wildlife species that you may hunt or fish, seasons, bag or creel (container for carrying fish) limits, methods of hunting or sport fishing, descriptions of areas open to hunting or sport fishing, and other provisions as appropriate. You may find previously issued refuge-specific regulations for hunting and sport fishing in 50 CFR part 32. In this rulemaking, we are also standardizing and clarifying the language of existing regulations.

Statutory Authority

The National Wildlife Refuge System Administration Act of 1966 (16 U.S.C. 668dd-668ee, as amended by the National Wildlife Refuge System Improvement Act of 1997 [Improvement Act]) (Administration Act), and the Refuge Recreation Act of 1962 (16 U.S.C. 460k-460k-4) (Recreation Act) govern the administration and public use of refuges.

Amendments enacted by the Improvement Act, built upon the Administration Act in a manner that provides an "organic act" for the Refuge System, are similar to those that exist for other public Federal lands. The Improvement Act serves to ensure that we effectively manage the Refuge System as a national network of lands, waters, and interests for the protection and conservation of our Nation's wildlife resources. The Administration Act states first and foremost that we focus our Refuge System mission on conservation of fish, wildlife, and plant resources and their habitats. The Improvement Act requires the Secretary, before allowing a new use of a refuge, or before expanding, renewing, or extending an existing use of a refuge, to determine that the use is compatible with the purpose for which the refuge was established and the mission of the Refuge System. The Improvement Act established as the policy of the United States that wildlife-dependent recreation, when compatible, is a legitimate and appropriate public use of the Refuge System, through which the American public can develop an appreciation for fish and wildlife. The Improvement Act established six wildlife-dependent recreational uses as the priority general public uses of the Refuge System. These uses are: Hunting, fishing, wildlife observation and photography, and environmental education and interpretation.

The Recreation Act authorizes the Secretary to administer areas within the Refuge System for public recreation as an appropriate incidental or secondary use only to the extent that doing so is practicable and not inconsistent with the primary purpose(s) for which Congress and the Service established the areas. The Recreation Act requires that any recreational use of refuge lands be compatible with the primary purpose(s) for which we established the refuge and not inconsistent with other previously authorized operations.

The Administration Act and Recreation Act also authorize the Secretary to issue regulations to carry out the purposes of the Acts and regulate uses.

We develop specific management plans for each refuge prior to opening it to hunting or sport fishing. In many cases, we develop refuge-specific regulations to ensure the compatibility of the programs with the purpose(s) for which we established the refuge and the Refuge System mission. We ensure initial compliance with the Administration Act and the Recreation Act for hunting and sport fishing on newly acquired refuges through an interim determination of compatibility made at or near the time of acquisition. These regulations ensure that we make the determinations required by these acts prior to adding refuges to the lists of areas open to hunting and sport fishing in 50 CFR part 32. We ensure continued compliance by the development of comprehensive conservation plans and specific plans, and by annual review of hunting and sport fishing programs and regulations.

Response to Comments Received

In the September 15, 2010, Federal Register (75 FR 56360), we published a proposed rulemaking identifying changes pertaining to migratory game bird hunting, upland game bird hunting, big game hunting, and sport fishing to existing refuge-specific language on certain refuges for the 2010–2011 season. We received 14 comments on the proposed rule during a 30-day comment period; seven of those comments were supportive of the rulemaking.

Comment 1: Four commenters expressed opposition to the Service banning lead sinkers on several of our refuges. They feel that this ban would necessitate them having to purchase new nontoxic sinkers and this would be hardship on all anglers, especially in light of current economic conditions. They feel that the amount of lead left in waters is minimal and not the same as that in ammunition used by waterfowl hunters.

Response 1: Three refuges in this rule have language banning lead sinkers on their refuges: Patuxent Research Refuge in Maryland, Seney National Wildlife Refuge in Michigan, and Rappahannock River Valley National Wildlife Refuge in Virginia. Lead is a toxic metal that, in sufficient quantities, has adverse effects on the nervous and reproductive systems of animals, and can be lethal to wildlife if ingested, even in small amounts such as that contained in a fishing weight. According to the American Bird Conservancy and Center for Biological Diversity, an estimated 10 million to 20 million birds and other animals die each year from lead poisoning in the United States. Some animals die a painful death from lead poisoning while others suffer for years from its debilitating effects. Current estimates are that approximately 4,000 tons are lost in ponds and streams as fishing lures and sinkers. This metal is poisoning at least 75 wild bird species, including loons, golden and bald eagles, ravens and endangered California condors. Bald eagles are especially vulnerable to lead. Eagles eat fish, including the bottom-feeding varieties most likely to scoop sinkers from the sediments. It is true that sinkers are only part of the lead problems. Raptors can also pick up bullet fragments from deer carcasses, and other birds can pick up lead shot showered over fields and wetlands by years of hunting activity. But lead shot for waterfowl hunting has been illegal since 1998. There are nontoxic fishing weights (split shot) for use in nontidal waters that are readily available in the marketplace. Many anglers are using fishing tackle made from nontoxic materials such as tin, bismuth, steel, and tungsten, alternatives which are found in all 50 States. The difference in cost between nonlead tackle and lead is not great, especially for basic items. For example, a ¾ reusable split shot costs $.03 for lead and $.04 for tin.

This ban of lead sinkers is not new to any of these refuges. In the case of Rappahannock River Valley National Wildlife Refuge, they have banned lead sinkers since 2004 in their freshwater ponds, where there is a greater likelihood of lead split shot being ingested by wildlife. They do allow the use of lead sinkers in tidal creeks because to hold bait in a tidal situation anglers need heavier weights, and heavier nontoxic weights are not as available in the marketplace. There is also less likelihood of weights in tidal waters being ingested (larger size, deeper water).

Seney National Wildlife Refuge has banned lead sinkers since 2002. They have several fish-eating predators (bald eagle, osprey, kingfisher, otter, loon) that are susceptible to incidental lead ingestion on the refuge along with swans that may ingest lead weights while feeding in shallow waters. From 1987–2004, lead toxicosis accounted for 22 percent of the 204 Michigan common loon deaths that were necropsied by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources' Rose Lake Wildlife Disease Lab.

Patuxent Research Refuge banned lead sinkers as of April 12, 2010 (it was effective in the 2009–10 rulemaking). We are making no change to the regulations as a result of these comments.

Comment 2: Two commenters feel that we are making more refuges into killing fields for wildlife and birds. One of these commenters also wishes to extend the comment period by 60 days. Both commenters feel that by spreading lead shot all over the environment it kills a second time and more with other animals feeding from the dead carcass. They feel that the use of the refuge is taken away from nonhunters who cannot use the site when “the wildlife murderers are there shooting,” and that hunting is incompatible with any other use of the site.

Response 2: The 1997 National Wildlife Refuge System Administration Act stipulates that hunting (along with fishing, wildlife observation and photography, and environmental education and interpretation), if found to be compatible, is a legitimate and priority general public use of a refuge and should be facilitated. The Administration Act authorizes the Secretary to allow use of any refuge area for any purpose as long as those uses are compatible. In the case of each refuge opening/expansion in this rule, the refuge managers went through the compatibility process (which allows for public comment), in addition to complying with the National Environmental Policy Act (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.) (NEPA) (which also allows for public comment) to make the determination before opening or expanding the refuge to allow for hunting.

We disagree that the comment period is insufficient. The process of opening refuges is done in stages, with the fundamental work being done on the ground at the refuge and in the community where the program is administered. In these stages, the public is provided other opportunities to comment, for example, on the comprehensive conservation plans, the compatibility determinations, and the hunt plans and accompanying NEPA documents. The final stage is when we publish the proposed rule in the Federal Register for additional comment, commonly providing a 30-day comment period.

We make every attempt to collect all of the proposals from the refuges nationwide and process them expeditiously to maximize the time available for public review. We believe that a 30-day comment period, through the broader publication following the earlier public involvement, gives the public sufficient time to comment and allows us to establish hunting and fishing programs in time for the upcoming seasons. Many of these rules also relieve restrictions and allow the public to participate in wildlife-dependent recreational activities on a number of refuges. Even after issuance of a final rule, we accept comments, suggestions, and concerns for consideration for any appropriate subsequent rulemaking.

We are and have been phasing out the use of lead shot by hunters on refuge lands. However, we are doing this phase-out of lead shot in a coordinated manner with the respective State wildlife agency. The National Wildlife Refuge Improvement Act of 1997 directs the Service to make refuge regulations as consistent with State regulations as practicable. See additional discussion on the lead shot issue in Response 1. There were no changes to this rulemaking as a result of these comments.

Comment 3: A commenter asked whether a change could be made to Cape May National Wildlife Refuge (NWR), which is opening the Great Cedar Swamp Division section of its refuge to wild turkey hunting, to include the Delaware Bay Division. The commenter explains that he/she understood the reason why Delaware Bay Division was not listed during the time of the comprehensive conservation plan (CCP) approval was that no wild turkeys were likely to be found in that Division, but feels that is not the case today. Also, the commenter feels that the turkey hunting disturbance footprint/impact is far less than other user groups who currently venture onto the refuge—that some of the nonhunting user group activities involve large numbers of individuals, moving as a single group, which creates a much larger disturbance to the wildlife population than a single individual transiting the same area. The commenter goes on to state that other users are not limited in any fashion as to the amount of time spent inside the ecosystem, unlike hunter users who are limited by Federal and State regulations.

Response 3: In accordance with the National Wildlife Refuge System Improvement Act of 1997, the 2004 Comprehensive Conservation Plan (CCP) for Cape May NWR provides a strategic management direction for the refuge over a 15-year period. As described in the 2009 Turkey, Rabbit, Squirrel Hunt Management Plan, the Preferred Alternative implements the strategies as outlined in the CCP for providing new compatible upland game hunting (turkey, rabbit, and squirrel) on the refuge. We consider this activity to be a wildlife-dependent public use activity. The exclusion of the Delaware Bay Division for turkey hunting meets the purposes of the Cape May NWR, as outlined in the 2004 CCP. Opportunities for turkey hunting and other wildlife-dependent public use activities on the refuge will be re-evaluated during the CCP's revision in 2019.

We designed hunting opportunities provided on Cape May NWR to result in minimal disturbance to trust resources. Minimizing disturbance factors and potential impacts are a primary consideration in season and regulation development. Because hunters may only harvest turkey during the spring in the Great Cedar Swamp Division on 4,492 acres, fewer biological impacts would occur than if we allowed turkey hunting in the Delaware Bay Division as well. We allow turkey hunting in limited areas of the refuge in order to reduce the cumulative negative impacts to wildlife and conflicts among other user groups on the refuge. No changes were made to the regulation as a result of this comment.

Comment 4: Another commenter felt that Federal hunting and fishing rules should not only be consistent with State hunting and fishing regulations but provide a practical, easy-to-use structure to permit hunters and anglers on Federal refuges. In particular the commenter suggests that we should provide notice in State hunting and fishing guides of opportunities found in refuges along with permitting requirements, allowing hunters and anglers to obtain required permits in a similar manner as State fishing and hunting licenses or permits.

Response 4: Most State hunting regulation pamphlets identify hunting opportunities on refuges. In addition, many States also assist in and coordinate the issuance of refuge hunting permits, and many assist in running the hunting program on a specific refuge by providing staff. We are seeking additional opportunities to harmonize the refuge and State regulations. In addition, the process of selecting hunters for various hunting opportunities undergoes annual reviews, often in conjunction with State wildlife agency staff, and we are seeking opportunities to improve these processes. However, an important distinction between refuges and other lands within a State is that national wildlife refuges are closed to hunting in the lower 48 States until the Service opens them through a prescribed series of steps set forth both in regulation (50 CFR 32.1) and in policy (605 FW 2). Furthermore, if we do open a refuge, not all lands within a refuge are opened in their entirety, and we are very specific about exactly how this hunt will take place.

The decision to open a refuge to hunting involves numerous steps where each refuge manager determines, after completing a compatibility determination, hunting and/or fishing opening package, appropriate NEPA documentation, section 7 consultation, and consultation with State fish and game agencies, the conduct of the hunting or fishing opportunity. While we make every effort to be consistent with State regulations, there are instances when it is appropriate that we be more restrictive than the State. Our regulations at 50 CFR 32.2(d) state that, "Each person shall comply with the applicable provisions of the laws and regulations of the State wherein any area is located unless further restricted by Federal law or regulation." [Emphasis added.]

For example, States may typically allow a longer hunting/angling season or larger bag limits than do many refuges. Most refuges have shorter seasons not only to ensure healthy wildlife populations, but to also allow other users opportunities to visit and observe wildlife on our refuges (i.e., bird watchers, school groups, other refuge visitors) free of any safety concerns related to hunting in particular. We allow refuge managers the latitude to be more restrictive than the State when they deem it necessary and appropriate for a particular refuge.

The commenter also referred to a condition that required hunters wishing to participate in a hunt to submit a Big/Upland Game Hunt Application (FWS Form 3–2356). We recently secured OMB approval of nine new forms allowing the refuges to keep track of various activities on the refuges. The Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 (44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq.) (PRA) determines how we may collect information from 10 or more individuals. We strive with every annual regulation to comply with the PRA and this is an attempt to do so. This law is unique to the Federal Government and compliance is not discretionary. The collection of this information enables refuge managers to more appropriately manage hunts helping to ensure quality opportunities for the hunting and angling public in addition to better managing wildlife populations. We made no changes to the regulation as a result of this comment.

Comment 5: A commenter says that the Service should only propose rules that it reasonably believes it can enforce and that is consistent with the purposes of allowing hunting in refuges. Specifically, the commenter assumes that the requirement for hunters in tree stands to use a safety belt or harness (as proposed at Choctaw NWR) is proposed for safety purposes, but we provide no analysis justifying this rule. Further, the rule is overly prescriptive and will be difficult to enforce without undermining the hunting.

Response 5: This is not a new proposal for Choctaw NWR. The refuge has had this regulation in place since 2004. The commenter states that in order to enforce this regulation, the law enforcement officer would disturb any wildlife. Often officers (Federal or State) make use of spotting scopes and binoculars enabling them to check compliance from a distance and also are able to examine equipment at check-in and check out stations, in addition to field checks. Furthermore, this is a requirement for hunters using State wildlife management areas in Alabama. According to State statistics, falling from tree stands is the leading cause of injuries to hunters in Alabama. Injuries from tree stand accidents could be minimized or prevented by wearing a safety belt or harness. Alabama regulations now require all hunters using a tree stand on wildlife management areas to wear a safety belt or harness. We make no changes to the regulation as a result of this comment.

Comment 6: A commenter feels that a condition for Bald Knob NWR Arkansas (A6) is overly broad and without reason. Specifically, he/she does not disagree with the requirement for use of only approved nontoxic shot shells for waterfowl hunting, and feels that the proposal to disallow shells in/on vehicles will result in unwarranted searches and seizures and possibly increase the Service's liability.

Response 6: Bald Knob NWR is both a popular waterfowl hunting refuge and known as one of the best areas for waterfowl hunting in the State. Over the years disputes between hunting parties escalated based on various reasons such as hunting too close together, "sky busting" (shooting birds at long ranges when there is only a small chance of taking a bird), and other problems. The refuge addressed those problems in 2001 by implementing a minimum distance between different hunting groups to be at least 100 yards (90 m). They addressed the "sky busting" issue by implementing the 25 shell possession limit, including in vehicles. This significantly reduced "sky busting" forcing hunters to make better judgments and shots in the field. Consequently, hunters are more peacefully coexisting resulting in a more enjoyable and quality hunt. No major hunter conflicts have arisen since the refuge implemented these rules. The logic behind the wording "including in vehicles" is because hunters would bring 25 shells into the field and once expended, the law enforcement officers would find them returning to their vehicles to get another box of 25. If the officers imposed a limit of 25 shells only in the field, as suggested by the commenter, we are not reducing sky busting because there is potentially an unlimited supply of ammunition available to the hunter in his or her vehicle. By limiting hunters' possession to 25 shells, including in their vehicles, we have eliminated (or nearly so) the problem as evidenced by the few disputes in the past 9 to 10 years.

Finally, on Bald Knob NWR all hunters must possess the refuge brochure, which when signed becomes their refuge hunting permit. Their signature indicates that they have read and understood the refuge hunting regulations and willingly agree to allow law enforcement officers to inspect or search their equipment used during the hunt. We made no changes to the rule as a result of this comment.

Comment 7: A commenter feels that hunting and fishing age requirements should be consistent throughout the country and points out that Bayou Cocodrie NWR listed a different age threshold for youth hunters than other Louisiana refuges. The commenter also felt that instead of prescribing Federal hunting supervision laws that the refuge should defer to State law.

Response 7: After submission by the refuge of their regulations, the State proposed an age change for youth hunters. Bayou Cocodrie NWR is effecting that change with this final rule and modifying the age for youth hunters from age 17 and under to age 16 and under. As a general rule, we strive to be consistent with State regulations. As for the comment about supervision of youth hunters and the comparison to other refuges, each refuge manager determines the conduct of a hunt on the individual refuge. They take into consideration such factors as habitat types, endangered species, and public hunting pressure present on their particular refuge. At Bayou Cocodrie NWR, the manager determined that there needs to be a more experienced hunter accompanying and teaching the younger hunter the responsibilities of hunting on the refuge. Other than modifying the age of youth hunters to age 16 and under, we made no changes to the regulation as a result of these comments.

Comment 8: A commenter, though supportive of expanding hunting on Minnesota Valley National Wildlife Refuge in Minnesota, expressed concern about expansion of hunting on wildlife refuges in general. The commenter expressed that the cumulative impact assessment of each refuge was made available online in a prior stage of this process but is not available online now while the regulation is in its final stages.

Response 8: We disagree. We posted on <http://www.regulations.gov> a cumulative impacts assessment report of the entire rulemaking (23 pages) on the day the Federal Register published the proposed rule, and we simultaneously posted the proposed rule on that Web site. This report addresses a description of the subject and issues involved and assesses the direct, indirect, and cumulative impacts of the proposed hunting activities on hunted populations of migratory birds and resident wildlife, nonhunted migratory and resident wildlife, threatened and endangered species, plant and habitat resources, other wildlife-dependent recreational uses, physical resources (including air, soil and water) cultural resources, refuge facilities, solitude and socioeconomics. We also assessed impacts of the proposed opening and/or expansion of hunting activities on the seven refuges by evaluating Compatibility Determinations prepared by each refuge for their respective hunting programs, and intra-Service consultations on the effects of hunting on endangered and threatened species conducted for each refuge hunting program as required by section 7 of the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended (16 U.S.C. 1531 et seq.).

When contacted by the commenter, he/she did not inquire about the cumulative impacts assessment, but rather about the general process of the rulemaking, including the 2003 Fund for Animals litigation. We explained to the commenter that this rulemaking was a compilation of the changes needed by refuges for this particular season and that the bulk of the economic analysis is done, appropriately, at the field level. We directed the commenter to contact individual refuges if they wished to receive the NEPA documentation created at the refuge level. The commenter did so, received the information that he/she was seeking, and supports the expansion of hunting in Minnesota Valley NWR. The commenter further stated that he/she felt there should be more information available to the public about proposed hunting regulations, specifically the readily available environmental assessment of each refuge. As discussed in the preamble of the rule, the decision to open or expand a refuge is a public process. All elements of that decision, including the hunt plan, compatibility determination, and appropriate NEPA analysis, are the subject of a public review and comment process and are available upon request. The decision to post online individual refuge-specific environmental analyses lies with the refuge manager; however, we will make the suggestion to refuge managers that they do so in the future to facilitate additional public inspection of documents after the appropriate public review process has ended and we have made a decision. We made no changes to this rulemaking as a result of this comment.

Effective Date

This rule is effective upon publication in the Federal Register. We have determined that any further delay in implementing these refuge-specific hunting and sport fishing regulations would not be in the public interest, in that a delay would hinder the effective planning and administration of the hunting and fishing programs. We provided a 30-day public comment period for the September 15, 2010, proposed rule. An additional delay would jeopardize holding the hunting and/or fishing programs this year or shorten their duration and thereby lessen the management effectiveness of this regulation. This rule does not impact the public generally in terms of requiring lead time for compliance. Rather it relieves restrictions in that it allows activities on refuges that we would otherwise prohibit. Therefore, we find good cause under 5 U.S.C. 553(d)(3) to make this rule effective upon publication.

Amendments to Existing Regulations

This document codifies in the Code of Federal Regulations all of the Service's hunting and/or sport fishing regulations that are applicable at Refuge System units previously opened to hunting and/or sport fishing. We are doing this to better inform the general public of the regulations at each refuge, to increase understanding and compliance with these regulations, and to make enforcement of these regulations more efficient. In addition to now finding these regulations in 50 CFR part 32, visitors to our refuges will usually find them reiterated in literature distributed by each refuge or posted on signs.

We have cross-referenced a number of existing regulations in 50 CFR parts 26, 27, and 32 to assist hunting and sport fishing visitors with understanding safety and other legal requirements on refuges. This redundancy is deliberate, with the intention of improving safety and compliance in our hunting and sport fishing programs.

The changes for the 2010–11 hunting/ fishing season noted in the chart above are each based on a complete administrative record which, among other detailed documentation, also includes a hunt plan, a compatibility determination, and the appropriate NEPA analysis, all of which were the subject of a public review and comment process. These documents are available upon request.

Fish Advisory

For health reasons, anglers should review and follow State-issued consumption advisories before enjoying recreational sport fishing opportunities on Service-managed waters. You can find information about current fish consumption advisories on the Internet at: <http://www.epa.gov/waterscience/fish/>.

Plain Language Mandate

In this rule we made some of the revisions to the individual refuge units to comply with a Presidential mandate to use plain language in regulations; as such, these particular revisions do not modify the substance of the previous regulations. These types of changes include using “you” to refer to the reader and “we” to refer to the Refuge System, using the word “allow” instead of “permit” when we do not require the use of a permit for an activity, and using active voice (i.e., “We restrict entry into the refuge” vs. “Entry into the refuge is restricted”).

Regulatory Planning and Review

The Office of Management and Budget (OMB) has determined that this rule is not significant under Executive Order 12866 (E.O. 12866). OMB bases its determination on the following four criteria:

- (a) Whether the rule will have an annual effect of $100 million or more on the economy or adversely affect an economic sector, productivity, jobs, the environment, or other units of the government.
- (b) Whether the rule will create inconsistencies with other Federal agencies' actions.
- (c) Whether the rule will materially affect entitlements, grants, use fees, loan programs, or the rights and obligations of their recipients.
- (d) Whether the rule raises novel legal or policy issues.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

Under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (as amended by the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act [SBREFA] of 1996) (5 U.S.C. 601, et seq.), whenever a Federal agency is required to publish a notice of rulemaking for any proposed or final rule, it must prepare and make available for public comment a regulatory flexibility analysis that describes the effect of the rule on small entities (i.e., small businesses, small organizations, and small government jurisdictions). However, no regulatory flexibility analysis is required if the head of an agency certifies that the rule would not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Thus, for a regulatory flexibility analysis to be required, impacts must exceed a threshold for “significant impact” and a threshold for a “substantial number of small entities.” See 5 U.S.C. 605(b). SBREFA amended the Regulatory Flexibility Act to require Federal agencies to provide a statement of the factual basis for certifying that a rule would not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

This rule adds one national wildlife refuge to the list of refuges open to hunting, increases hunting activities on six national wildlife refuges, and increases fishing activities at one national wildlife refuge. As a result, visitor use for wildlife-dependent recreation on these national wildlife refuges will change. If the refuges establishing new programs were a pure addition to the current supply of such activities, it would mean an estimated increase of 12,330 user days (one person per day participating in a recreational opportunity) (Table 2). Because the participation trend is flat in these activities since 1991, this increase in supply will most likely be offset by other sites losing participants. Therefore, this is likely to be a substitute site for the activity and not necessarily an increase in participation rates for the activity.

TABLE 2—ESTIMATED CHANGE IN RECREATION OPPORTUNITIES IN 2010/2011

Refuge	Additional days	Additional expenditures
Modoc	130	$13,868
Cape May	1,700	181,356
Fort Niobrara	250	26,670
Caddo Lake	225	24,003
Deep Fork	177	18,882
Bosque del Apache	8	853
Rappahannock River Valley	640	51,510
Minnesota Valley	9,200	981,454
Total	12,330	1,298,596

To the extent visitors spend time and money in the area of the refuge that they would not have spent there anyway, they contribute new income to the regional economy and benefit local businesses. Due to the unavailability of site-specific expenditure data, we use the national estimates from the 2006 National Survey of Fishing, Hunting, and Wildlife Associated Recreation to identify expenditures for food and lodging, transportation, and other incidental expenses. Using the average expenditures for these categories with the maximum expected additional participation of the Refuge System yields approximately $1.3 million in recreation-related expenditures (Table 2). By having ripple effects throughout the economy, these direct expenditures are only part of the economic impact of these recreational activities. Using a national impact multiplier for hunting activities (2.67) derived from the report “Economic Importance of Hunting in America” and a national impact multiplier for fishing activities (2.79) derived from the report “Economic Importance of Fishing in America” yields a total economic impact of approximately $3.5 million (2009 dollars) (Southwick Associates, Inc., 2007). Using a local impact multiplier would yield more accurate and smaller results. However, we employed the national impact multiplier due to the difficulty in developing local multipliers for each specific region.

Since we know that most of the fishing and hunting occurs within 100 miles of a participant’s residence, then it is unlikely that most of this spending would be “new” money coming into a local economy; therefore, this spending would be offset with a decrease in some other sector of the local economy. The net gain to the local economies would be no more than $3.5 million, and most likely considerably less. Since 80 percent of the participants travel less than 100 miles to engage in hunting and fishing activities, their spending patterns would not add new money into the local economy and, therefore, the real impact would be on the order of about $695,000 annually.

Small businesses within the retail trade industry (such as hotels, gas stations, taxidermy shops, bait and tackle shops, etc.) may be impacted from some increased or decreased refuge visitation. A large percentage of these retail trade establishments in the local communities around national wildlife refuges qualify as small businesses (Table 3). We expect that the incremental recreational changes will be scattered, and so we do not expect that the rule will have a significant economic effect on a substantial number of small entities in any region or nationally. As noted previously, we expect approximately $695,000 to be spent in total in the refuges’ local economies. The maximum increase ($3.5 million if all spending were new money) at most would be less than 1 percent for local retail trade spending.

This final rule reflects a change for Rappahannock River Valley NWR as being in three different counties in Virginia: Caroline, Essex, and Richmond. The proposed rule incorrectly stated the refuge was located in Northumberland County.

With the small change in overall spending anticipated from this rule, it is unlikely that a substantial number of small entities will have more than a small impact from the spending change near the affected refuges. Therefore, we certify that this rule will not have a significant economic effect on a substantial number of small entities as defined under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.). An initial/final Regulatory Flexibility Analysis is not required. Accordingly, a Small Entity Compliance Guide is not required.

Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act

The rule is not a major rule under 5 U.S.C. 804(2), the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act. We anticipate no significant employment or small business effects. This rule:

a. Will not have an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more. The minimal impact will be scattered across the country and will most likely not be significant in any local area.

b. Will not cause a major increase in costs or prices for consumers, individual industries, Federal, State, or local government agencies, or geographic regions. This rule will have only a slight effect on the costs of hunting opportunities for Americans. If the substitute sites are farther from the participants' residences, then an increase in travel costs will occur. The Service does not have information to quantify this change in travel cost but assumes that, since most people travel less than 100 miles to hunt, the increased travel cost will be small. We do not expect this rule to affect the supply or demand for hunting opportunities in the United States and, therefore, it should not affect prices for hunting equipment and supplies, or the retailers that sell equipment.

c. Will not have significant adverse effects on competition, employment, investment, productivity, innovation, or the ability of United States-based enterprises to compete with foreign-based enterprises. This rule represents only a small proportion of recreational spending at national wildlife refuges. Therefore, this rule will have no measurable economic effect on the wildlife-dependent industry, which has annual sales of equipment and travel expenditures of $72 billion nationwide.

Unfunded Mandates Reform Act

Since this rule applies to public use of federally owned and managed refuges, it will not impose an unfunded mandate on State, local, or Tribal governments or the private sector of more than $100 million per year. The rule will not have a significant or unique effect on State, local, or Tribal governments or the private sector. A statement containing the information required by the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (2 U.S.C. 1531 et seq.) is not required.

Takings (E.O. 12630)

In accordance with E.O. 12630, this rule will not have significant takings implications. This regulation affects only visitors at national wildlife refuges and describes what they can do while they are on a refuge.

Federalism (E.O. 13132)

As discussed in the Regulatory Planning and Review and Unfunded Mandates Reform Act sections above, this rule will not have sufficient Federalism implications to warrant the preparation of a Federalism Assessment under E.O. 13132. In preparing this rule, we worked with State governments.

Civil Justice Reform (E.O. 12988)

In accordance with E.O. 12988, the Office of the Solicitor has determined that the rule does not unduly burden the judicial system and that it meets the requirements of sections 3(a) and 3(b)(2) of the Order. The regulation clarifies established regulations and results in better understanding of the regulations by refuge visitors.

Energy Supply, Distribution or Use (E.O. 13211)

On May 18, 2001, the President issued E.O. 13211 on regulations that significantly affect energy supply, distribution, and use. E.O. 13211 requires agencies to prepare Statements of Energy Effects when undertaking certain actions. Because this rule increases activities at seven refuges and opens one new refuge, it is not a significant regulatory action under E.O. 12866 and is not expected to significantly affect energy supplies, distribution, and use. Therefore, this action is not a significant energy action and no Statement of Energy Effects is required.

Consultation and Coordination With Indian Tribal Governments (E.O. 13175)

In accordance with E.O. 13175, we have evaluated possible effects on federally recognized Indian tribes and have determined that there are no effects. We coordinate recreational use on national wildlife refuges with Tribal governments having adjoining or overlapping jurisdiction before we propose the regulations.

Paperwork Reduction Act

This regulation does not contain any information collection requirements other than those already approved by the Office of Management and Budget under the Paperwork Reduction Act (44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq.) (OMB Control Numbers are 1018–0102 and 1018–0140). See 50 CFR 25.23 for information concerning that approval. An agency may not conduct or sponsor and a person is not required to respond to a collection of information unless it displays a currently valid OMB control number.

Endangered Species Act Section 7 Consultation

We comply with section 7 of the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended (16 U.S.C. 1531 et seq.), when developing Comprehensive Conservation Plans (CCPs) and step-down management plans (which would include hunting and/or fishing plans) for public use of refuges, and prior to implementing any new or revised public recreation program on a refuge as identified in 50 CFR 26.32. We have completed section 7 consultation on each of the affected refuges.

National Environmental Policy Act

We analyzed this rule in accordance with the criteria of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA) (42 U.S.C. 4332(C)), 43 CFR part 46, and 516 Departmental Manual (DM) 8.

A categorical exclusion from NEPA documentation applies to publication of amendments to refuge-specific hunting and fishing regulations since they are technical and procedural in nature, and the environmental effects are too broad, speculative, or conjectural to lend themselves to meaningful analysis (43 CFR 46.210 and 516 DM 8). Concerning the actions that are the subject of this rulemaking, we have complied with NEPA at the project level when developing each proposal. This is consistent with the Department of the Interior instructions for compliance with NEPA where actions are covered sufficiently by an earlier environmental document (516 DM 3.2A).

Prior to the addition of a refuge to the list of areas open to hunting and fishing in 50 CFR part 32, we develop hunting and fishing plans for the affected refuges. We incorporate these refuge hunting and fishing activities in the refuge CCPs and/or other step-down management plans, pursuant to our refuge planning guidance in 602 Fish and Wildlife Service Manual (FW) 1, 3, and 4. We prepare these CCPs and step-down plans in compliance with section 102(2)(C) of NEPA, and the Council on Environmental Quality's regulations for implementing NEPA in 40 CFR parts 1500–1508. We invite the affected public to participate in the review, development, and implementation of these plans. Copies of all plans and NEPA compliance are available from the refuges at the addresses provided below.
